About This Game

As the CEO of a multinational corporation that sells superpowers to the highest bidder ("the finest superpowers money can buy"), you'll cast powerful magic, invent futuristic technologies, and manipulate your stock price to impress shareholders.

"MetaHuman, Inc." is a thrilling 260,000-word interactive novel by Paul Gresty, author of "The ORPHEUS Ruse." Your choices control the story. It's entirely text-based--without graphics or sound effects--and fueled by the vast, unstoppable power of your imagination.

MetaHuman's mission statement is, "Building Better Humans." Will you prefer to hire mad scientists, warlocks, or a mix of both? Will you eliminate your competitors, acquire them, or seduce them? Will you save the world from the problems your company has created, or will you embezzle enough money and power to flee the country instead?

MetaHuman, Inc. Our dark magic, our superscience, your solutions!

- Play as male or female, gay or straight
- Three possible romances

- Travel through time
  - Negotiate with aliens
  - Become the most powerful human being in the world

You turn and scramble for the cover of a nearby derelict building. It's fairly undignified, but you have no real alternative. You hear the crack of the rifle again, and again. That second bullet strikes the building's doorframe, just as you pass through it.

From your momentary cover, you risk peeking out through an empty window frame. You see nothing and no one. Yet somewhere out there is a sniper with a rifle aimed in your direction.

- I locate the sniper using my Q-Ray Vision Enhancement.
- I try to locate the sniper using The Earth's Unearthing.
- I use my Heightened Legerity Enhancement to find a better position.
- I call out that I just want to talk.
- I try to find a better hiding place.

Ahmed Mahadi is asking you to help deceive his employers. If you conceal the existence of Pentifrome Five, you can guarantee repeat sales of the less efficient booster treatment against malaria in the future. Of course, you'll also be exploiting numerous health agencies in Asia, and forcing hundreds of thousands of people to subject themselves to regular injections, rather than a quick, one-shot vaccine.

- "The health of those at risk of malaria is my main concern. We will make Pentifrome Five available for purchase, as planned."
- "Yes, let's forget about Pentifrome Five. I'll draw up a contract for the sale of a less efficient variant - as well as future booster shots."
- "Mr. Mahadi, you've inspired me to help those in Asia. I will make Pentifrome Five available, as planned - and sell it at a reduced price to government health agencies and NGOs."
- "I have no interest in profiteering from the treatment of those at risk of disease. I will give large quantities of Pentifrome Five, for free, to government health agencies and NGOs in Asia."

He gives you an oily smile, and spreads his hands. "My abilities and my intelligence are not insignificant. I would ask you to grant me a position of responsibility, trust. Perhaps at MetaHuman Incorporated, certainly by your side." A sudden hardness comes into his voice. "You owe me that much."

Again, you give Robyn a look. A slight frown touches the corners of her mouth, as she picks up on the tension in the room.

- "Agreed." Perhaps I do owe him something. At any rate, I prefer him to work with me rather than against me.
- "You want a job? Fine." I don't want to work with Gable; I'm just trying to keep him happy while Robyn is in danger.
- "You want to follow me? That's laughable. You're a worm, Gable."
- "I appreciate the offer, but I must refuse. I do not know you, so I cannot yet trust you."
- I use my Affinity Enhancement to gauge Gable's veracity.
- I use my Psi-activator Enhancement to launch a psychic assault against him.
- I fry Gable using my Hex of the Arc Savant Enhancement.
